

COVID-19 EMERGENCY

UBI BANCA IS READY TO GRANT A MORATORIUM TO BUSINESSES HIT BY THE SPREAD OF THE CORONAVIRUS

The bank has taken measures which take effect immediately to support businesses impacted by the measures to contain the spread of contagion. This initiative regards Group customers throughout the country and makes the recent announcement by the Italian Banking Association operational.

Milan, 6th March 2020 – UBI Banca is ready to assess the application of measures to support businesses hit by the Covid-19 emergency, by putting the Italian Banking Association's appeal to the banking world into operation immediately. The association has asked banks to adopt appropriate measures to fight the slowdown in the economy and to assist businesses in their relationships with banks at this very difficult time.

UBI Banca's business clients who are directly affected by the consequences of the emergency will be able to benefit from a moratorium on loan repayments. The terms of this initiative and the resulting agreements may also be extended should the emergency continue.

The measures deployed by UBI Banca not only regard businesses that operate in the regions most hit by the emergency, but all businesses throughout the country, provided they have been affected by consequences that are directly attributable to it.

The UBI Banca Group's business clients may get in touch with staff at the Bank's Corporate Centres and in the Corporate & Investment Banking Division to assess the magnitude of the resulting difficulties and the necessary measures to be taken.
